Oppenheimer Wisdom Seen Security Risk

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man credited by many atomic scientists with unlocking the door to the hydrogen bomb says he would feel safer if Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer did not have custody of the nation's vital secrets.

Direction Of Traffic Flow Is Considered

City Ordinance Would Change S. Lundy, Also N. Broadway

Council last night heard the first reading of an ordinance changing the direction of one-way traffic on sections of Lundy Ave. and Broadway.

Under the proposed new law, one-way traffic on N. Broadway would flow in a northerly direction instead of southerly, and one-way traffic on S. Lundy Ave. would travel in a southerly direction, as reversed from its present direction.

One-way traffic would continue to flow north on N. Lundy and in both directions on S. Broadway. Incorporated into the measure was a section defining Dry Alley, just south and parallel to State St., as a one-way, westbound alley. On April 20, an ordinance asking for the reconversion of Broadway and Lundy Ave. to two-way streets was read in Council for the first time. Subsequently, the measure was given a second reading and referred to the safety committee.

The status and directions of the streets were changed several times by the previous Council.

Set Stenographer Pay
Council last night also passed, after it had been amended, an ordinance authorizing the hiring of a stenographer for Mayor Dean Cranmer.

The measure fixes the salary of the stenographer at $100 per month, instead of the $250 that originally had been stipulated. Councilman R. M. Linder objected to the ordinance, saying his questions on the subject had not been answered. He specifically wanted to know what her duties would be, whether the mayor required the services of a stenographer, whether she would be under Civil Service and where the money was to come from.

Councilman William Stark declared that Linder actually wanted to know only where the money was to come from. He said the salary would be taken out of the funds which the city realized from state cases filed by the mayor. Linder was the only councilman to cast a dissenting vote on the measure.

Vacation Period Ends At Vittrified Products

LISBON — Eighty-six employees of the American Vittrified Products Co. will return to work Monday after a three-week shutdown for vacation. Clayton Hunter, superintendent, said today.

Due to slack conditions the men were given vacations early this year, he said, while ordinarily the factory closes down for four of July.

About $7,000 on vacation pay checks has been paid out, Hunter said, with three-fourths of the employees drawing two-week pays.

The Lisbon Sales Book Co. will close shop for vacation June 25 and reopen July 12, according to Gus Emory, manager. Twenty-six employees will be given vacation pay.

189 Enroll In Vacation Bible School In Lisbon

LISBON — Mrs. Leo Capehart, co-supervisor of the Community Vacation Bible School said today eleven new members have been enrolled, bringing the total to 189.

Mrs. Capehart said parents are invited to attend sessions between 9 and 9:30 a. m. The course began Monday and will end June 25.

Churchill, Ike To Map Indo Action

Officials See Visit Here Break For U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eisenhower-Churchill talks to open here late next week seem likely to result in positive steps to form a united front against Communist advances in Southeast Asia.

The decision of British Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden to come here is regarded by U. S. officials as a decided break in favor of American efforts to get a Southeast Asia security pact as soon as possible.

Appeal To AEC
Oppenheimer and his attorneys have appealed to the full AEC to overturn this finding. The commission promised a decision this month.

The half-million words of testimony from 40 witnesses read through the gamut of charges that Oppenheimer had been a contributor and fellow traveler with Communist causes until 1942, that he lied to Army intelligence officers investigating Russian atomic espionage in 1942 and that he opposed an all-out effort to develop the H-bomb as late as 1949.

All this was freely conceded by Oppenheimer, who said he had made mistakes in the past and had once been an "idiot," but carefully guarded the host of secrets "I have had . . . in my head a long time." And a virtual roll call of former AEC commissioners and top atomic scientists backed up former AEC Chairman Gordon Dean, who described Oppenheimer as one of the few men who can completely demonstrate his loyalty to his country "by his performance . . . a very devoted man to his country."

Aside from Oppenheimer and his wife, there were 38 witnesses. At-

Civil Defense Test In Lisbon Successful

LISBON — A mid-afternoon hush was noticeable here Tuesday as 3,000-odd people in the county seat huddled in "air-raid" shelters awaiting an "enemy attack."

The delayed Civil Defense alert, held in most communities across the nation Monday, was "an exceptionally good practice," Col. Leo F. McCarthy of Youngstown, 3rd area CD executive officer, told reporters immediately after the "bombing" yesterday.

He said he observed only one person on the streets after a blast of the air raid siren was sounded at 3:30. Col. McCarthy and local CD director Gerald Sanders observed the "dry run" from the fire station.

Police Chief Dalton Pike and Sheriff Howard Clark patrolled the streets by cruiser to warn motorists to pull to the curb, while village police on foot, helped direct traffic and pedestrians.

Block wardens, in charge of Charles Faust, assisted residents in finding shelters designated by CD officials.

Courthouse employees moved methodically and quietly to the southwest corner of the building as directed by Sanders.

Welch Attacks Timing of Memos

Hearings May End With McCarthy Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) moves back into the witness role today for probably the final scenes of the stormy and wide-ranging inquiry into his dispute with high Army officials.

McCarthy professed readiness for a quiet windup, but there was opposition questioning — which could lead to new disputes — over the origin and timing of 11 typed memoranda in support of the Wisconsin senator's "blackmail" charges against Secretary of the Army Stevens and Army Counselor John G. Adams.

Joseph N. Welch, Boston lawyer who speaks to McCarthy only on the record, touched off a verbal battle over the memoranda yesterday as the Senate Investigations subcommittee heard the last of testimony from Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr.

Welch, special counsel for Stevens and Adams, made an effort to discredit the memos and suggested that Mrs. Mary Driscoll, McCarthy's secretary, had not typed one of them as she had testified.

Demands He Take Oath

McCarthy demanded that Welch take the oath and give any information he might have "that Mrs. Driscoll is not telling the truth." Welch, who has clashed with McCarthy before, ignored the demand.

McCarthy voiced confidence that he has refuted the Stevens-Adams charges that he, Cohn and Carr exerted improper pressure to get preferential Army treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, a former aide drafted last Nov. 3.

Army witnesses repeatedly have denied the McCarthy-Cohn charges that they attempted to use Schine as a "hostage" in trying to sidetrack an investigation of alleged Communists in the Army.

Acting Chairman Mundt (R-S.D.) said Welch had assured him he could finish his cross-examination of McCarthy during the day. Whether the hearings would lap over into a 36th day tomorrow appeared to depend on the amount of senatorial questioning.

Welch precipitated yesterday's principal battle when he suggested that a Jan. 15 memo Carr said he scribbled out and handed to Mrs.

Assistant At Warren Named Alliance School Superintendent

ALLIANCE — Granville S. Hammond, director of instruction and assistant superintendent of the Warren city schools, was appointed superintendent of the Alliance public schools at a school board meeting Tuesday night.

Hammond, who is expected to secure his release from the Warren board of education Wednesday, will begin his duties here Aug. 1.

He will replace Russell E. Schaefer, whose present contract expires July 31.

Council Again Defers Action On Curfew Law

Salem City Council Tuesday night — after two recesses — denied Mayor or Dean Cranmer's request that council take action one way or another on the controversial curfew ordinance.

The vote was unanimous that the ordinance be kept in committee. Mayor Cranmer, speaking to Council, declared he felt the group had had enough time to ponder the merits of the measure and asked that it be either passed or "taken off our books."

Shortly afterward, Councilman William Stark, chairman of the committee of the whole which has been studying the ordinance, asked that Council recess so that its members could decide what to do about the measure.

When Council President James Aldom called Council to order five minutes later, Stark declared that the committee — comprised of all seven Council members — had not yet reached a decision.

Following another brief recess, Council voted to table the measure.

At a public hearing March 12, only a few of the 65 persons attending voiced approval of the curfew law drafted by Columbiana County Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin. Council has not taken any action on the measure, and on March 16 voted down a proposal by Stark that it hold another public hearing on the matter.

Under provisions of the ordinance adopted by most county communities, youths under 16 years of age are forbidden to "congregate, loaf, loiter or be upon" any city streets, alleys or sidewalks after 10 p. m. Sundays through Thursday, or after 11 p. m. Fridays and Saturdays. The deadline is extended an hour for youths between the ages of 16 and 18.

The curfew has been adopted in the county by East Liverpool, Columbiana, Leetonia, Lisbon, East Palestine, Salineville and Wellsburg.

Judge Tobin declared June 4 that the flow of young people into his court had dropped off "tremendously" since the enforcement of the law in most municipalities.

In the past three months, he said, only 12 young law violators — five from Salem — came before him as a result of misdemeanors after curfew hours.

Elyria Loses Turnpike Fight

Judge Won't Halt Route Through City

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Common Pleas Judge Arthur D. Tudor today refused to grant the city of Elyria an injunction to prevent the Ohio Turnpike from going through the city.

The judge ruled the state in selecting the route through Elyria has shown no "abuse of discretion," as claimed by Elyria counsel.

He also held the Ohio Constitution gave the state the right to take city land for such a project.

July 12 was set as the date for hearings on the state's land appropriation proceedings. The case had been held in abeyance pending a ruling on the city's injunction request.

Held Up Construction
The suit, which may be appealed, has held up construction of a vital part of the 240-mile superhighway which is to run across the northern part of Ohio from Pennsylvania to Indiana.

All other land needed had been acquired previously. At stake in the suit were two small parcels of land on either side of Black River. They were valued by the Turnpike Commission at less than $1,000.

The city, which contends the pike would be a "wall" running through Elyria's northern limits, held the commission had no right to condemn the parcels.

"Lesser Must Give Way"
Judge Tudor of Hardin County, sitting here on special assignment from the Ohio Supreme Court, ruled "lesser must give way to the greater, the local to the general" interest.

Holding the state has the right to condemn the parcels, he said "Ohio is not Elyria in matters local, but Elyria is Ohio in matters general" and local purposes can not preempt facilities needed for general purposes.

The relation of the state to municipalities, he said, is "that of a superimposed sovereignty inhibited thereby in matters local, but supreme thereover in matters general."

Both the city solicitor and the mayor were out of Elyria today, but there were indications the city had decided earlier to appeal to a higher court if Common Pleas Court turned down its injunction request.

To Decide Prices
At the July 12 hearing, the court will decide how much the commission must pay for the parcels.

Elyria had been opposing the limited access highway since 1951 and has been in court with its objections since last summer.

The turnpike is scheduled to open Oct. 1, 1955. Main Elyria objection was that the turnpike would have no cross street. Crossovers could be made only at overpasses or underpasses. City councilmen feel that will divide the city and limit expansion towards the north.

Elyria urged the commission to route the highway farther north, bypassing the city. But the commission said this would cost from $500,000 to $942,000 more.

Commission Chairman James W. Shooknessy said after being informed of the decision: "The commission will go forward. This decision is just confirmation of the validity of the decisions that the commission has made."

Joe Boone, Teacher, To Be Supervisor Of Memorial Bldg. Rooms

The Salem Rotary Club, at its meeting Tuesday noon, voted to finance the operation of the new Youth Canteen in the Memorial Building.

The Rotary Club's youth committee, which has been working out details of supporting the youth center, has secured Joseph Boone, a Salem High School teacher and coach of the Junior High basketball team, as supervisor of the center.

Mr. Boone, Bud Fields, a Korean war veteran who promoted the Youth Canteen proposal, and Mary Campbell, Memorial Building Youth Council secretary, and William Potts, general chairman of the youth center project, attended the meeting yesterday at the Building.

Ewing Farrington, Rotary committee chairman, presided.

Supervisory Cost
The Rotary Club's action was to finance the operation of the Youth Canteen for one year at an estimated cost of $1,200. Mr. Boone, as supervisor, will be paid $100 a month.

The high school youths who already have begun work on converting the basement rooms of the Memorial Building into the Youth Canteen have adopted a constitution.

Purpose of the center is described as "to organize and maintain a non-profit, civic organization dedicated to the advancement of the youth of Salem; and to furnish guidance and properly supervised entertainment facilities for our youth."

The Youth Canteen will be open to Salem High School boys and girls who pay an annual $2.00 membership fee.

The center will be open Tuesday, Friday and Saturday evenings, from 7:30 until 10 p. m. or until 11:30 p. m. on evenings which are not followed by school days, according to present plans.

The center will be governed by a junior, a senior and a joint board of directors. Use of the Memorial Building basement room has been approved by the Memorial Building board. The layout will include a lounge and snackbar room, a game room, a ballroom, a registration and cloak room and restrooms. The Youth Canteen will be kept locked when not in use.

Columbiana

Plan Addition To Water Line

C. of C. Discusses Town Project Monday

COLUMBIANA — Officers and trustees of the Columbiana Chamber of Commerce met Monday evening and discussed further projects involving a proposed extension of the city water line to the F. C. Russell Co.'s plant at the western edge of town and the problem of town planning.

Committees handling both problems will hold conferences soon with members of council, and with the board of affairs concerning phases within its jurisdiction.

The industrial planning committee headed by John Backstrom will discuss with council and the board of affairs extension of the city water line to the F. C. Russell Co.'s plant. The Russell Co. not only wants city water facilities, but desires annexation to the village.

It is estimated that extension of the water line would cost about $20,000, but added revenue from the plant would more than pay the interest on the investment. The line would have to be extended from the water tower on West St. and for part of the distance easements would have to be acquired to cross private property. Further expansion by the Russell Co. would probably follow extension of the water line.

Chairman L. A. Way of the town planning committee has also requested a conference with members of council.

Dr. W. D. Jones' community service committee will investigate further the possibility of a merger of the Columbiana and Fairfield school districts. Consideration will be given the advantages and possible disadvantages to both districts.

The committee on traffic signs to be placed at both ends of Route 14 by-pass and on Route 14 in the north part of town directing traffic to the business part reported that it will have signs ready to be placed soon.

Plans for off-street parking facilities in the business district are progressing.

With a number of memberships still outstanding, the chamber now has 105 paid-up members for the 12-month period from April 1.

THE BOARD of education Monday evening accepted the resignation of James Hall as Columbiana High School basketball coach and named Richard Berryman head coach and Robert Hum assistant. Berryman was football coach last school year, and Hum, a graduate of Columbiana High, who has been teaching at Somerset, Pa., was recently hired as a junior high teacher.

Hall, a graduate of Lowellville High School and Westminster College at New Wilmington, Pa., came to Columbiana as coach in 1949. After two years here, he was called up as a reserve to serve two years in the Air Corps. Having had the option of returning at the end of his service, he came back last fall and took the basketball post.

Hall had also done graduate work at Penn State and Kent State before coming to Columbiana. He has moved with his family to Glen Dale, Los Angeles County, Calif., where his parents now live.

The only other action by the board Monday evening was to rehire Mrs. Hulda Evans, Mrs. Ella Angle and Mrs. Mary Stark, who had charge of the school cafeteria last year.

MAX GARD, Lisbon historian and speaker at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club in the Christian Church Monday evening, gave the historical background of the formation of Ohio as a state and Columbiana County, along with humorous details of the building of the Sandy and Beaver Canal. Dr. George Myers and James Churchfield were program chairmen.

Kiwanian Sam Belleff was reported in a critical condition with a cerebral hemorrhage in Northside Hospital, Youngstown.

President William Furney announced an inter-club meeting at Toronto, Tuesday, June 29.

Members of the Rotary Club met at the McKinley Boy Scout reservation north of Lisbon, Monday evening, and after lunch, built additional fireplaces for the use of the scouts under the direction of Earl Kirtley. Ray Stiver, visiting Rotarian from Salem, assisted.

Three busses of the Columbiana-Youngstown bus line have been chartered by the Booster, Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs to take two busloads of the Columbiana school patrol and one busload of Fairfield School students, about 125 in all, besides several members of the sponsoring clubs, to Cleveland on Thursday for the American League baseball game. The busses will load at Firestone Park and leave at 9 a.m.

Delegates and alternates to the 10th Ohio District convention at Steubenville next Saturday and Sunday and to the Ohio Department Convention in Cincinnati, July 30 - August 1, were elected by Firestone American Legion Post at its meeting Monday evening. Delegates are Commander Robert Patchen, Adjutant Thomas Crawford and Cy McLaughlin; alternates, William Duffy, George Snook and Marcus Hum.

Reese Calls Slaying Victims 'Soldiers'

COSHOCTON, Ohio (AP)—A grand jury meeting scheduled for today to investigate first degree murder charges against Cletus Reese has been postponed until June 23.

Bodies of three men were found this month on the Reese farm. Reese, a 36-year-old former mental patient, was quoted by Sheriff Gilbert Kempf Monday as saying he killed the three because they were "soldiers." The victims all were civilians.

The grand jury session was delayed because one juror vacationing in Florida could not return in time.

Reese is charged with the murder of Clyde Patton, 28, Fresno School teacher and part-time auto salesman. His battered body was found in a field at the Reese farm June 5, three days after police said he had taken Reese for a demonstration ride in a new car.

Later two other bodies — heads beaten in like Patton's — were uncovered from shallow graves on the farm. They were identified as Lester Melick, 58, Danville farmhand, and Paul Tish, 39, also a former mental patient at Cambridge State Hospital. Reese was released from there on a trial basis in December 1951.

Kempf said Reese probably would be sent to Lima State Hospital for a 30-day observation period. He has not been charged in the deaths of Melick and Tish.

B'nai B'rith Lodge Elects New Officers

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The men of B'nai B'rith's District Grand Lodge No. 2, including eight states, elected Harold S. Cook of St. Louis president in concluding their 102nd annual convention here yesterday. The women's lodge elected Mrs. Morris Meschan of Cleveland president.

The 1953 convention will be held in St. Louis. The district includes Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Kansas, Missouri, Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico.

Other officers elected included Martin M. Gluchow of East Liverpool, first vice president; Edward Blagrand, Cleveland, third vice president; and Donald W. Harris, Cincinnati, treasurer.

BAN AD-SLOW SIGNS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Traffic engineers of the state highway department have been ordered to rid Ohio highways of "school slow" signs placed by agencies of the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. Chief traffic engineer Harold Eckhardt said the signs are illegal because they do not conform to standards and also carry advertising on one side.

Plan Stand-By Team At Geneva

Men To Remain While Talks Are Suspended

GENEVA (AP)—Western diplomats made plans today for a stand-by group to remain in Geneva during the expected suspension of the Indochina peace talks.

An authoritative source said some sort of a recess in the nine-power parley probably will be agreed on before the end of the week, but that there is no thought now of a complete break off of the talks.

France reportedly is opposed to any outright adjournment of the negotiations with the Communists, at least until after a new government has been set up in Paris and the National Assembly has had a chance to review the Indochina situation.

The United States and Britain were understood to be in agreement that France should not be deserted. They also feel the military talks here between the Vietnamese and the French must continue.

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault flew back from Paris today to discuss the situation with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and U.S. Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith at a dinner tonight.

Smith and Eden also saw Jean Chauvel, French ambassador to Switzerland, on the situation this morning. Eden planned to meet later today with Communist China's Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai.

One plan reportedly being considered by the West would have each of the nine delegations leave in Geneva responsible — but not top-level — representatives to serve as a stand-by group.

This would permit quick resumption of the full conference should developments warrant it.

A high Western source said the French-Vietnamese military talks had made very little progress so far on their task of defining cease-fire lines. He said, however, they had exchanged maps giving their initial ideas of where the two rival forces should be assembled.

This source said that in the initial exchange both sides "claimed everything." He acknowledged that this was usual in the first stages of bargaining, but that in this case events in Indochina might be the deciding factor.

The United States was reported still firmly opposed to any move to divide Indochina into two zones. The feeling in U.S. circles is that this would mean permanent partition of Indochina. The United States and France were understood to be pressing for a series of "goose egg" areas where the troops would be assembled after an armistice.

The Indochina parley appeared as hopelessly deadlocked as the Korean phase of the Geneva talks, which ended last night after seven fruitless weeks.

British Foreign Secretary Eden told delegates Monday he felt the talks should be suspended unless the Communists made drastic changes in their position.

It appeared certain that neither Eden nor U.S. Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith intends to remain in Geneva after this week.

DROWNS IN OHIO

CINCINNATI (AP)—Raymond P. Dryden of Manchester, a deckhand on a dredge boat, drowned in the Ohio River here yesterday after falling off a barge. It was the sixth drowning in this area in four days. A short time earlier, the body of Grover C. (Tennessee) Cooke, 50, of Bowls Gap, Tenn., who drowned Sunday, was found between barges at a landing.

Leetonia

C. of C. To Hear Pennsylvania Civic Leader

LEETONIA — The committee in charge of arrangements for the "ladies night" meeting of the Leetonia Chamber of Commerce announce plans are almost complete for the dinner meeting which will be held Monday evening, June 28, at 6:30 p.m.

Members, their wives and husbands, will hear one of the outstanding civic leaders in this section of the country, Denny Schil of Elwood City, Pa.

Mr. Schil is largely responsible for the tremendous industrial boom which took place after he and his associates set out to do something about the deplorable condition of Elwood City's industrial situation.

Further plans for the dinner meeting will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Greenmeyer attended the graduation of their daughter, Jacqueline, Monday from Penn Hall, Chambersburg, Pa. After two years at Oak Grove School, Vassalboro, Maine, she has spent her last two years of preparatory school work at Penn Hall, where she has been active in various campus organizations. She is enrolled as a freshman at Denison University this fall.

The Past Noble Grand Club of D. Wallace Rebekah Lodge met at the home of Mrs. Harry Klitz Monday evening. 500 was enjoyed and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Louis Atkinson, Mrs. Vernon Walters and Mrs. Raymond Baker. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Susan Prior of Berea was a weekend guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Prior. Lieutenant and Mrs. James Rogers left Monday morning for his new assignment at Altus Air Base, Oklahoma. Mrs. Rogers is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smith.

Pierre Steals Hearing Aid for the Sake of Love

PARIS (AP)—Pierre Guyon had a girl friend and a lot to say to her, but she was deaf and he too poor to afford even an ear trumpet.

As police tell the story, Pierre called for help one day on another deaf woman friend possessing charitable instincts and a hearing aid.

The lady couldn't help with money, but offered to make up a package of food. While she was busy in the kitchen, Pierre palmed the mechanical ear, valued in France at $185.

Police finally caught up with Pierre, his girl friend and the hearing aid, after two weeks of presumably frequent loving murmurings. A judge last night charged the man with theft and sent him to Sante Prison to await trial.

Convicted of not Sending Children To Schools

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A suspended jail sentence of 30 days has been given Mrs. Mary Lincoln Turner, a college graduate and mother of seven children, for refusing to send her children to school.

Mrs. Turner contends she can educate her children at home. Her lawyer stipulated yesterday that facts in a complaint filed last Jan. 8 were true.

Mrs. Turner, formerly a resident of Orange County, Calif., now lives in Yarnell, Ariz. She was convicted previously of failing to send her children to Los Angeles schools and is appealing that case to the U. S. Supreme Court.

She was placed on two years probation yesterday by Municipal Judge C. C. Cravath.

Income Insurance Is Becoming Major Demand Of Labor Unions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Income insurance is becoming almost as hot an issue as wages in labor relations. By income insurance is meant a plan to maintain a worker's income, or part of it, when he loses his job or is unable to work because of illness, accident or old age.

Unions seldom go in to see the boss with a new set of demands these days without including some form of income insurance. The employer usually is asked to pay the entire cost, but often the cost is shared.

Such demands are not new, but they are becoming more and more frequent. Unions are increasingly insistent about them.

One reason for this is that with wage increases harder to negotiate, unions are turning to something else.

Another is that just as employers are skittish and uncertain about the business future so are workers. They're more anxious than ever for job security.

Right now, a demand for a guaranteed annual wage is a major issue in steel industry labor negotiations with the CIO. The CIO United Steelworkers wants a laid-off worker to get three-fourths of his regular pay for as long as a year after becoming unemployed. This plan is designed to augment state unemployment compensation payments, which average about $25 weekly over the nation.

All such demands involve two important questions: policy and cost.

As to policy, employers are asking: Are such plans a form of socialism? Would job security tend to make the workers lose incentive and become lazy? Since Congress and state legislatures enacted some such plans years ago in the social security and workmen's compensation laws, is it wise to embark now on supplemental, employer-paid programs?

As to cost, like a lot of other things original price is not so expensive. It's the upkeep. In other words, unions expect to get a little bit as a starter but expect to improve each plan as time goes by. While the cost may be small at the beginning, it would mount, especially if an employer committed himself to several forms of income insurance.

On the policy question, the wisdom of getting into the business at all, answers depend pretty much on who's doing the answering. Even the researchers on this subject disagree.

One of these experts, a recognized authority in the field of state workmen's compensation laws and related income insurance matters, recently became under secretary of labor. He's Arthur Larson, former dean of the University of Pittsburgh Law School.

Larson, in an initial speech as a government official, told employers they have a choice—but not much time to make it—between improving existing income insurance laws or succumbing to union demands for supplemental benefits.

"We are going to pay in one form or another for the consequences of unemployment and disability," Larson said. "We are not going to let these people starve in the gutter."

He contended too that while it is often said such plans undermine the individual, his self-respect, initiative and freedom, "no attempt has ever been made to prove it."

"We have let this legislation lag behind changing conditions until in most instances it is relatively less adequate than it was when first instituted," Larson added.

Larson's remarks fall more in line with arguments advanced by unions than with those of employers. But one of the big employer organizations, the United States Chamber of Commerce, has urged "serious" study of ways to regularize employment and insure workers against job layoffs.

President Eisenhower too has entered this contentious field. His proposal to increase old age pensions and broaden coverage of the social security laws has passed the House with some modifications.

Eisenhower has also asked the states to boost payments and number of workers covered by the unemployment compensation system, operated jointly by the states and the federal government. Three states have done so in recent months.

Passage of such legislation might take some steam out of union efforts to get similar benefits from employers.

Most of the more than 20,000 employer-financed private pension and welfare plans now in effect—estimated to have assets of over 20 billion dollars—commit employers to augment social security payments to a fixed level.

Thus, as social security benefits rise, employer liability declines. Of course this could lead to higher payroll taxes on employers to pay for more social security. And, if employer liability under private plans declined, unions might seek to have the employer raise his guarantees.

There's no easy answer to this complicated problem. But there is a growing realization it must be answered somehow.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce, in a recent critical study of various union plans, advised employers to "face up" to the situation and said "rejecting panaceas does not mean doing nothing else."

Marsin To Deny Arizona Kidnaping

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—After keeping a closed lip since his apprehension last Thursday, Daniel J. Marsin was prepared to go to court today and testify he did not kidnap Evelyn Ann Smith, wife of a wealthy Phoenix industrialist, as charged.

Without elaboration, Marsin told witnesses in the county jail last night, "I am not guilty of kidnaping."

The 41-year-old Phoenix welder is accused of abducting Mrs. Smith last Wednesday and keeping her for approximately 29 hours in the Superstition Mountains, some 40 miles east of here.

The victim was returned unharmed after a $75,000 ransom was paid. The money was recovered intact just a few yards from a ranch house where Marsin was taken into custody.

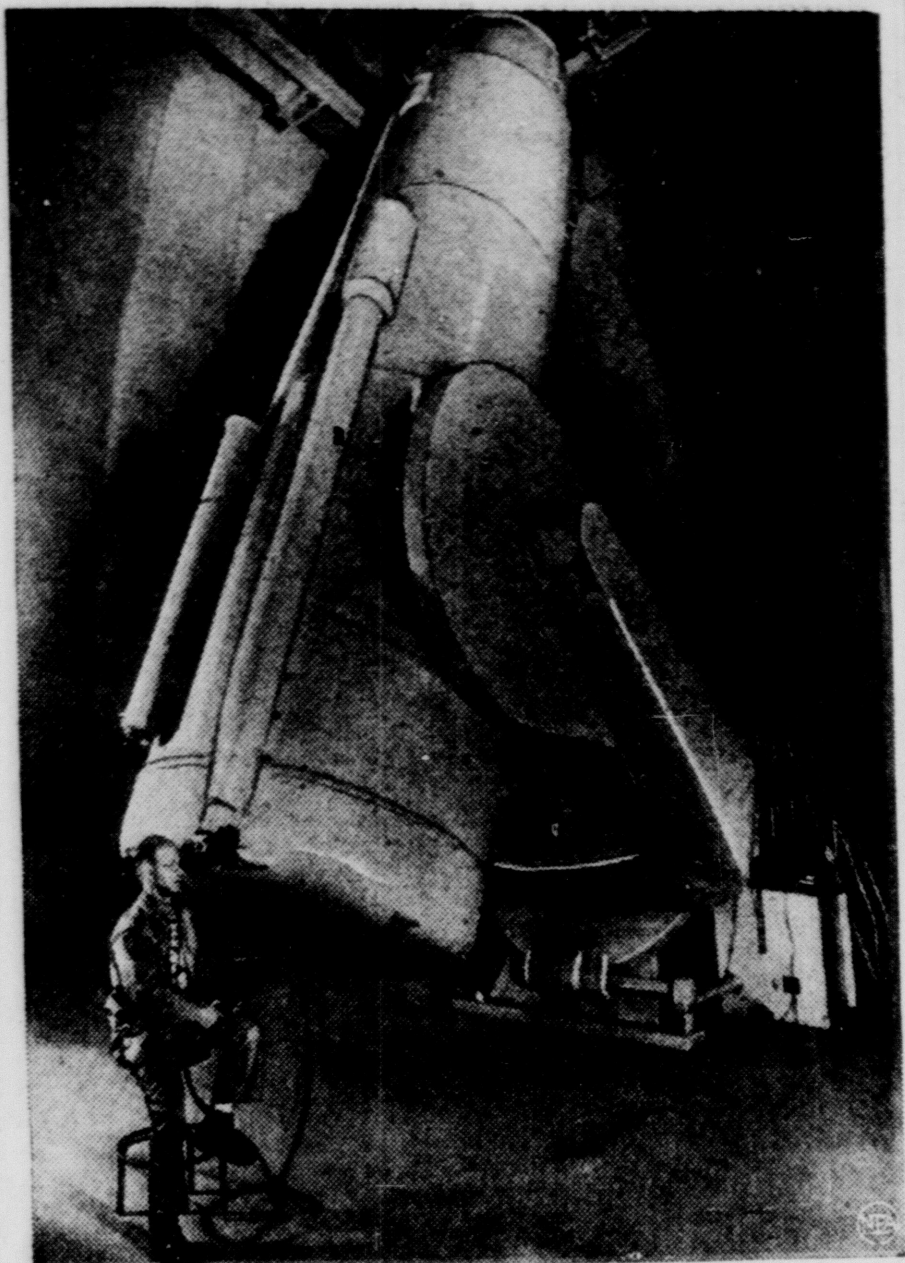

Circumstantial evidence has been piled up by the prosecution against Marsin, but the defendant's attorney, John J. Flynn, maintains the charges are full of loopholes.

It was bought by the Rev. Jim Brennan, a Catholic priest. And the Methodist church benefited by $236.

Too Old For Hastiludes

The news that Prime Minister Churchill is coming to the United States with Anthony Eden, his foreign secretary, for a visit late this month can be interpreted by guesswork. The guesswork is made meaningful by the fact Sir Winston finally has been taken into the Order of the Garter, the highest honor a British monarch can bestow on a subject.

In other words, Sir Winston is about to end his career in Britain's public life and is bringing his probable successor to the United States as part of the transfer of his unique international influence.

The Order of the Garter completes Sir Winston's acquisition of all the honors his country can bestow.

The British are pleasantly hazy about the origin of the Order. They can agree only on its beginning in very ancient times among knights who split into two bands of 12 each and jostled with one another in a rousing "hastilude," meaning spear-play. In one reference given in the Oxford Dictionary, incidentally, a "hastilude" is described as "no less dangerous than war itself."

It is one of those delightful antiquities which the British preserve in deference to their endless appreciation of pomp and ceremony. No knight of the Garter has been expected to do anything but wear the ceremonial robes of the Order of the Garter for possibly 500 years.

Sir Winston at 80 is long past the age for "hastiluding."

Handicap Of Voluntary Action

If the tone of Washington's Indochina talk changes from day to day, the reason can be found in French politics.

The new tone is one of threatening to withhold aid from France.

It can be no secret, least of all to the French, that the United States is hoping for the best possible break for the European Defense Community out of the latest upheaval in France's political affairs. The best, it is feared, will be none too good.

Washington is hinting of a complete withholding of military help both to France and Italy if they delay their participation in the European Defense Community (France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, Luxembourg and The Netherlands) any longer. More than two years have passed since the original treaty was signed, on May 27, 1952. There is no more time to hope for a sudden change of heart.

There is no way the United States can force any European government to make any decision of this kind. The handicap of voluntary action is delay and more delay while popular governments go through the arduous processes of making up their collective minds.

There is no comparable delay in the sphere of Soviet influence. Orders take the place of requests to Russia's "allies." Punishment is used instead of threats. Nothing is left to chance. Dictatorship eliminates the "inefficiency" of popular decisions.

France may be unable to make the decision to join EDC. The United States may send no further aid to the French government. The potential defense of Europe may never be realized as far as EDC is concerned.

But if France and Italy cannot be counted on, that fact had better be known now. That is the beneficial side of voluntary action — that alliances are made by conviction, not by coercion. Once made on that basis, alliances mean something.

Grass Roots Optimism

The most painless hot-weather reading anyone is likely to pick up this summer is a booklet called "The Future of America."

It has been published by The Advertising Council, a non-profit organization that keeps reminding Americans what makes their country tick. In this particular booklet it deals with what might be called "grass roots optimism."

The theme is that anyone who takes the trouble to get better acquainted with the United States will be converted automatically to optimism by the abundant evidence of an expanding economy.

Starting with a daily population increase of 11,000 new babies and tracing the obvious steps required to take care of all the needs of an ever-expanding market composed of all age groups, the booklet comes to this conclusion — which can be grasped even in a heat wave: That it would take 500 billion dollars of business turnover just to meet current actual needs, that this calls for the greatest individual and industrial effort in peacetime history and that the "tremendous job of keeping up with future population growth in America is still ahead."

Most auto accidents are the result of the pedestrian trusting the motorist and the motorist trusting the pedestrian.

Price Of Vacillation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

France Again Proving Folly Of Wavering Policy

When a French cabinet falls in the midst of a serious international situation, there is a tendency in this country to assume that the whole government has collapsed and that all the machinery is paralyzed.

Actually, the change in the cabinet rarely affects the conduct of foreign policy. Thus, while there have been 17 cabinets in Paris since the close of World War II, there have been only two foreign ministers — Robert Schuman and Georges Bidault, the present incumbent.

While it is true that every incoming cabinet can direct or reverse a foreign policy, the French government has maintained on the whole a surprising continuity.

The selection of Pierre Mendes-France as premier would be regarded here as indicating not much change in foreign policy, though Edgar Faure, who is also mentioned, might take more direct steps to wind up the Indochina war.

THE AMERICAN government wisely refrains from expressing itself on any such questions as personalities but is nevertheless much concerned about the kind of policy which a new French cabinet might authorize.

For all practical purposes, negotiations at Geneva have been held up until the French envoy there can get specific instructions. But the Geneva Conference was drifting along anyway without result, and the crisis in Paris does afford an opportunity for the conferees to do more talking, if they wish about a possible compromise.

If the new cabinet wants to liquidate the Indochina war, it can do so through a surrender at Geneva. Despite all the talk about "pulling out of Indochina," none of the leaders in the French Parliament has come forth with a formula for doing it that will not be worse than a continuance of the present stalemate.

If general elections throughout France now are compelled, it could be that those deputies responsible for attempting to liquidate the Indochina war may find an aroused populace ready to punish them for their abdication of responsibility.

Sooner or later, all the facts about the recent negotiations between America and France will come to light and the French people will learn that, despite all the published reports about American unwillingness to help France in Indochina, there was no concrete request from the French government for American military intervention.

THE REASON, of course, was that, if America had been asked to intervene, the Washington government would have insisted on cooperation by other allies, and this would have meant an internationalized war. Such a development might have tied the hands of a French cabinet in negotiating a compromise in Geneva.

So while the American public has been hearing a lot of discussion about possible military intervention, actually it has all been on a hypothetical basis.

Meanwhile, the military situation in Indochina has deteriorated to the point where American aid could hardly accomplish now what might have been done several weeks ago.

This is a vivid illustration of the effects of a vacillating policy on the part of the Allies while the cabinet of a principal ally strives to keep going in the hope that the enemy will make concessions.

All the Communists have had to do, however, was to sit tight and let the military operations in Indochina go on and the disintegration inside the French Parliament hardly be any loss to the Moscow strategists.

THE WORLD is witnessing the dangerous consequences of Allied disunity. The American government is an interested but helpless bystander for American public opinion would not sanction military intervention in Indochina except on an Allied basis, and the French have never been ready formally to ask for it. Hence the free world allows the advantage once more to go to the Communists, who are thereby encouraged to encroach further and further.

This hastens the day of a showdown which, if it comes too late, may make it impossible to stop the sweep of Communist imperialism throughout Asia. Or it may prove to be the forerunner of World War III, just as vacillation over Nazi acts of aggression from 1933 to 1939 finally forced the issue into war.

Extravagance Road

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Some weeks ago, I commented in this column on the Upper Colorado storage, power and irrigation project recommended by the administration and destined, if pressed, to cost the nation's taxpayers billions of dollars. Since then, plenty has been happening which has had little attention because of the nation's absorption in Cohn, Schine, Adams and others.

After a hard fight in the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, the bill was approved by the narrow vote of 13-12. Most of the votes for the project were Republican. Most of the 12 opponents were Democrats. The vote of the Republicans for this great spending proposal may in part be due to the fact that the great proportion of them come from western reclamation states.

IT MAY BE DUE in part to the fact that the Republican administration favors it. It may be added that the Republican administration favors it because a lot of Republicans in the House and Senate are from reclamation states.

Of those Democrats who opposed it, one, Yorty from California is from a state that pays a lot of income taxes. He voted with "Donovan and O'Brien, and with Republicans Pillon of New York, Bender of Ohio, and Saylor of Pennsylvania. The three Texans and the one Floridian are conservative Democrats.

This vote should remind us of several things that may be well to remember this year:

First, that Republicans, when their sectional interests are involved, are no more for economy than was Truman at his most reckless period.

Second, that if the taxpayers of the big taxpaying states can be alerted to the cost of these vast projects, spending may be considerably reduced.

Third, that a Democratic victory this fall may not be such a blow to economical government and business generally as is anticipated by some Republican spokesmen.

Fourth, that it might be well to have on such committees more representatives of the states which must pay for such projects. It seems to have been assumed in selecting the membership of committees on both Houses that the only people fit to pass upon spending are the people who receive rather than pay.

FINALLY, it should be noted in all fairness that this vast project may be saddled on the taxpayers of the country by a Republican administration and a Republican Congress elected on a platform in which candidates were solemnly pledged to economy.

The economic aspects of the project as spelled out in the committee's minority report are staggering.

In the first place, the subsidy to irrigation is enormous. It involves a gift from the taxpayers of this and the next generation of "over $2,500 an acre or $370,000 for each of the 2,700 farms to be benefited."

I may add that I have seen and examined the data from which these amazing figures were calculated, and I know they are correct.

The minority also shows from the terms of the bill that the bill puts the government further into the business of electric power, because for many years the dams to be built would not be needed for water storage. They would be solely for the generation of power, remote in most cases from a suitable market.

THE BILL, according to the minority report, would grant authority to the secretary of the interior to build transmission lines "all over the country so long as they connected with a federal project now or hereafter to be built."

The authorization of this bill would very seriously undercut the Hoover commission, a fact which will be made very clear by the distinguished chairman of that commission in due time.

It is not only the McCarthy fracas that is threatening the unity of the Republican party. It is such a surrender as this to the advocates of the policy of spend and elect.

Republican Status

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

For the first time since the Eisenhower administration appeared, Republicans are taking seriously the split in their party. Heretofore such wise men as William Rogers would say, "Where will they go?" — meaning that the conservative Republican must vote for Republicans by force of habit even if Sokolsky they have lost confidence in their party.

Actually in a state like New Jersey, a stay-at-home movement is in the making which may reach large proportions, and in New York State, as a result of the activities of the Dewey clique in Washington, a third party movement has only failed to develop thus far because of the objection to Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., as a candidate for governor. If such a figure as James A. Farley or Judge Charles W. Froessel were nominated by the Democrats, many Republicans would vote against Dewey or abstain from voting as a mark of protest.

THE REALLY politically-minded leaders of the Republican party realize what has happened to their party. The intersection of Clark Clifford in the effort to destroy Sen. Joe McCarthy and the unbelievable attitude of the usually mild and even courtly Senator Stuart Symington, whose father-in-law, James Wadsworth, was a truly great Republican leader, has shocked Republicans, even those who had formerly opposed McCarthy.

The feeling is that if the party is to survive, it must be a partisan party, if such a phrase may be used, not a conveyor belt for New Dealers and Trumanites who like to play both sides of the fence.

It is no secret that conversations along these lines have taken place and are taking place and that the next few weeks will witness a complete change in policy and activity.

I prognosticate that Sen. McCarthy will take an active part in the 1954 congressional campaign in many parts of the country during the summer and autumn months. I prognosticate that Sen. Everett Dirksen will emerge as one of the more important leaders of the party. If Sen. Karl Mundt is re-elected as he undoubtedly will be, he will play a much greater role in party affairs than he had before the McCarthy-Stevens hearings started.

VICE PRESIDENT Richard Nixon had an extraordinarily difficult role to play. In the past it had been assumed that he was part of the conservative wing of the party; yet he has been accepted as a member of the inner circle in the White House.

He is expected to be the peace-maker in the party, but he has been a close friend of William Rogers, who is regarded by the conservatives as one of the architects of the effort to destroy McCarthy. Nixon is held in high affection by many of the Republicans who at this moment wonder at some of the things he is reported to have said during the past seven weeks.

My estimate is that when the quarrels within the party simmer down, Vice President Nixon will be at peace with the several factions and that it will be recognized that he was in a difficult position and that his potentialities remain great.

Three Republican leaders will come out of this with less factional antagonism than most others. They are the chairman of the National Committee, Leonard Hall, the postmaster general, Arthur Summerfield, and the attorney general, Herbert Brownell Jr.

Brownell will face the factional quarrel over William Rogers, who, I am told, is a brilliant personality but who suffers from a tendency to put his fingers into too many pies, some of which are too hot to handle.

ALL PEACE MOVES involve a lessening of factional quarrels and therefore there is less talk now than there was a fortnight ago about members of the White House staff, particularly about Sherman Adams.

Certainly the monitored telephone calls established that secretary of the Army, Robert T. Stevens, did not participate in the politics of the action against McCarthy. If he stood up for his office, that was his obligation.

It was not the duty of outsiders to use a difference of view which could have been settled amicably between Stevens and McCarthy as a political weapon to split the Republican party. At any rate, as of the moment, there seems to be no antagonism to Stevens.

This is the situation as I see it at this moment.

Sense Of Humor

By TRUMAN TWILL

One of my oldest friends did an important favor for me a few days ago. This will confirm the thanks he was given at the time.

He stood by patiently while the veins in my neck puffed out with rage and my eyes filmed over with the bright glaze which anger imparts to their beautiful gray-green luminescence.

He watched beads of perspiration stand out on the craggy knob that passes for my head. He listened to me sputter and stutter in incoherent expostulation.

He had nothing to say when the thing I was trying to say finally exploded through my speechlessness and spattered a 200-foot burst of blue profanity and purple words over everything in a radius of 20 feet.

He had no good advice to offer when I paused in my vituperation to throw a couple of sodium bicarbonates down the hatch to settle the sour lump which had started out to be a light lunch an hour before.

He made no mention of the veins standing out on my forehead like fire hoses attached to a new pump at a four-alarm blaze. He did not refer by word or glance to the fact my chin was trembling with indignation.

He just sat there and listened patiently while I clenched and unclenched my sweating hands. He did not glance meaningfully at the nervous motions of my feet and legs as I twisted them in and out of the chair legs.

He said nothing about my wanton waste of adrenalin.

He had the patience of Job. He let me spew it all out without any interruption. He even stood by silently while I followed up the sodium bicarb with a brace of sedatives to ease the thumping in my head.

He made no mention of the fact I was offensively and intemperately angry. He made no comment, direct or oblique, about anything I had said, although some of it must have rubbed him the wrong way.

He did not even put on a philosopher act, which would have been the most infuriating thing he could have done under the circumstances. He just listened while I unloaded a burden of resentment that had been rubbing saddle sores on my back for so long that the mere sight of the saddle had become intolerable.

My friend just took it all in and said nothing. He did not even look surprised, startled, pleased or displeased. His face was blank, until finally I paused for breath and time to bring up more ammunition.

Then he grinned at me amiably. He asked me one short question. It took all the venom out of my outburst and all the fight out of my fists. It left me feeling as if someone had emptied a bucket of cool water over my head.

It cleared my head and checked my temper. Although this happened a week ago I haven't had a relapse since. Something tells me I'm not likely to have one as long as I can remember to ask myself the same question from time to time.

"What in the world has happened to your sense of humor?" my friend wanted to know.

What in the world has happened to everybody's sense of humor? "Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad"

Ike Not Thinking Of '56 Election

President Says Time Taken Up by Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he is giving no thought now as to whether he will seek re-election in 1956.

The President also told his news conference his forthcoming conference here with Prime Minister Churchill to combat what Eisenhower termed the theory there is a great rift between the United States and Britain.

Eisenhower said the main purpose of the conference, to be held at the White House the weekend starting June 25, is to make the alliance between the two nations as strong as possible.

The President's remarks regarding 1956 were touched off by a newsman's reminder that Eisenhower's chief aide, Sherman Adams, suggested last week Eisenhower might not run again for the presidency if the Republicans were to lose control of Congress in the elections this fall.

Eisenhower was asked whether such a political development in November might have this effect on his plans.

He paused for a moment, then laughed. Then he went on to say that to his best knowledge the matter of what he will do in 1956 never yet has been discussed by him, except perhaps in a facetious manner.

The President said he was not going to make any prediction on that matter. He added, to a round of laughter, that what happens then is sufficient unto the day and the evils thereof.

He mentioned the great world problems confronting the United States; and said those are occupying his main attention at this time. He said that not by any matter of means was he casting his mind forward to 1956 at this time.

What other problems will arise in the meetings is not yet clear. Undoubtedly considerable attention will be paid to improving British-American relations.

That the talks will get the Southeast Asia security pact efforts off dead center seems beyond question at this time. Britain has been one of the keys to progress almost from the moment that Dulles proposed on March 29 that united action should be taken to stop the Communist tide.

The British government then decided to stake its interest on negotiations with Russia and Communist China at the Geneva conference in the hope that the war in Indochina could thereby be quickly stopped.

Oppenheimer

torneys for Oppenheimer said 25 of them voiced no doubts at all about him.

The most revealing new testimony was the inside version from Dean and other scientists and officials of the pulling and hauling in secret over whether to launch a big H-bomb effort after the Russians exploded an atomic bomb in the fall of 1949, and what happened to that effort. They called the H-bomb "The Super" and "The Gadget."

The picture unfolded was that even after former President Truman ordered the H-bomb project in January 1950, for more than a year the program was stalled and prospects were dim.

"We never saw anything that really had a chance" of producing a workable bomb, Dean testified, until he called all top scientists together at a meeting at Princeton, N.J., in June 1951. Oppenheimer and several other scientists agreed that original premises about how to build an H-bomb had collapsed and the scientists were worried that the presidential directive could not be carried out.

Dr. J. W. Alvarez, University of California scientist, said Oppenheimer told a Pentagon meeting almost a year after the Truman directive that the H-bomb project "will die a natural death" after Pacific tests planned for 1951 "fail." He quoted Oppenheimer as saying that would be "the natural time to chop the hydrogen bomb program off."

Then, dramatically, in the spring of 1951, Dr. Teller made what was described as a "brilliant discovery" and brought this idea to the desperate June meeting at Princeton.

After two days, Dean said, everybody was convinced the project at last was on the right track and Oppenheimer himself was "enthusiastic . . . almost thrilled."

"That is when it began to roll and it rolled very fast then," Dean said. "I might say that the gadget which we originally thought of in 1949 probably never would work and would have cost in terms of

A-bombs a price we could never had paid."

Oppenheimer himself testified that "from then on it became clear that this was a program which was bound to succeed." He said production of an actual hydrogen explosion in late 1952, after the discoveries in the first half of 1951, was "a miracle of speed."

As early as 1942, he said, he and other scientists had in mind a hydrogen bomb that would have "10,000 times the power of the atom bomb." No large amount of work was done on it then, he said, although "it was kept on the back burner throughout the war."

Dr. Teller gave a modest account of his own role in developing the H-bomb. As for Oppenheimer, Teller said he assumes—and will continue to assume until shown convincing proof otherwise—that Oppenheimer is loyal to the United States. But he added:

"I would feel personally more secure if public matters would rest in other hands."

Asked whether he believes Oppenheimer to be a security risk, Teller replied:

"I thoroughly disagreed with him in numerous issues and his actions frankly appeared to me confused and complicated. To this extent I feel that I would like to see the vital interests of this country in hands which I understand better, and therefore 'rust more.'"

Salem Tool Wins 6, Loses 0 To Top City Softball League

Butler Grange Close Behind

E.F., Bliss, Paul & Joe Winners Last Night

The power-packed Salem Tool nine is sitting on top of the city softball leagues in standings released today by official scorekeeper Dave Briskin.

Tool has racked up six straight wins without a setback to hold down first place, closely followed by Butler Grange, which is undefeated in three games.

Bliss is third with six wins in seven outings, Mullins is fourth, Demings, fifth, and Lisbon and Paul and Joe are tied for sixth.

League manager Ward Zeller reminds fans that, after one full round is completed in the 12-team circuit, the squads will be split into two loops, the top six teams comprising the "AA" classification, and the remaining six will be single-A.

Right now, the bottom five outfits include Leetonia, Parkers, Electric Furnace, Old Timers and Goshen. The listings include last night's action, Briskin said.

In addition, there is one schedule change listed for this evening. The Homeworth - Democrats Girls League contest has been cancelled and, instead, Mullins and Old Timers will tangle at 9 p.m.

IN ACTION LAST night at Kelley Field, Electric Furnace took Goshen 9-4 and Bliss dropped the Old Timers 8-2. Paul and Joe won from Leetonia by forfeit.

Furnace capitalized on eight walks and timely hitting to walk off with its 9-4 triumph over Goshen.

Furnace collected four runs in the second and five more in the fifth, all on a total of only six hits. Goshen punched out 10 hits but couldn't bunch them to make them pay off in the scoring column.

Bruce Feight had two hits to pace the winners while Stoffer and Kelley each had three safeties for Goshen.

In other play last night, a six-run first inning enabled Bliss to coast to an easy 8-2 win over the Old Timers.

Dave Kachner and Hector Brown contributed a double and a triple respectively in that big initial frame.

Veteran catcher Pete Davis had three hits, two singles and a home-run, to lead the way for the winners. Winning hurler Dick Jackson struck out eight men as he gave up only three hits.

The league standings are as follows:

Some Tickets Remain For All-Star Game

Due to the fact that it has returned several thousand checks to fans who did not comply with printed instructions in ordering All-Star Game tickets, the Cleveland Baseball Company today announced that a few thousand reserved seats are still available for the annual baseball classic to be played at Cleveland Stadium on Tuesday, July 13.

The club indicated that it was extending its deadline for ordering tickets and stated that anyone interested in purchasing a pair of reserved seats to the game could still forward a check or money order for eight dollars plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: All-Star Ticket Office, Cleveland Stadium, Cleveland 14.

The club emphasized that these remaining tickets would be sold through mail orders only and that customers would be limited to two tickets each, a procedure that has been followed since the tickets first went on sale.

The first American League player to attain 10-year status this season was Cass Michaels of the Chicago White Sox. He became a 10-year man April 22.

Giants Trip Redlegs, Tie For NL Lead; Braves Top Dodgers, Athletics Blast White Sox 11-4

By BEN PHLEGAR

If Leo Durocher's bank balance holds out there's no telling what heights the New York Giants may reach this season.

Leo's personal investment in the rapid rise of the Giants mounted to $200 today as he hauled out his checkbook and paid off Bill Taylor and Hank Thompson.

Taylor got his hundred for a home run in Milwaukee last Thursday, the only run in a 10-inning victory that moved the Giants into a first-place tie with Brooklyn.

Thompson got into the act last night with a three-run homer after two were out in ninth. It gave the Giants a 5-3 victory over Cincinnati and sole possession of first place.

In neither case did Durocher tell the hitters of his offer before they went to bat.

The Giants came home last night and went into the last of the ninth against Cincinnati trailing 3-2. Wes Westrum coaxed Harry Perkowski for a walk to open the ninth. Hoot Evers popped out trying to bunt but Whitey Lockman also drew a walk.

Howie Judson came in to erase Al Dark, who had collected three hits. Then lefty Jackie Collum was brought on to face the left-handed-hitting Thompson.

As Hank ran the count to 2-0 Durocher turned to the bench and said: "If he hits one I'll give him a hundred too."

The Giants knew from the seventh inning on that Brooklyn had lost to Milwaukee 7-6, meaning that first place was theirs if they could beat the Reds. Milwaukee took third place as Philadelphia bowed to St. Louis 3-1.

In the American League Cleveland stretched its lead to three games over the Chicago White Sox by whipping Washington 9-3. The White Sox never quite found out what hit them as they fell to the Philadelphia Athletics 11-4. New York defeated Baltimore 6-4 and Detroit downed Boston 4-1.

The Dodgers, who lost only 17 games at home all last season, dropped No. 11 last night to the Braves. It was the third straight time Milwaukee has beaten Brooklyn in Ebbets Field this year.

The Braves combed three Brooklyn pitchers for 14 hits and put together four singles in the eighth for the tying and winning runs. Hank Aaron got Milwaukee away to a 2-0 lead with a first-inning home run but Brooklyn led twice, 3-2 in the third after a two-run triple by Junior Gilliam, and 6-5 in the fifth after Duke Snider's 14th home run with two aboard.

Vic Raschi scattered six Philadelphia hits in winning his sixth game for the Cardinals. He gave up a run in the first on two walks and a single by Granny Hamner and helped get it back when he singled in the third in front of a home run by Rip Repulski.

Cleveland's sixth straight victory featured the return to limited action of Al Rosen. The heavy-hitting first baseman, who has been sidelined since June 4 with a fractured finger, appeared in the eighth inning against Washington as a pinch hitter and unloaded a three-run double. The hit helped Art Houtteman post his sixth victory.

The suddenly ferocious Athletics won their fifth in a row, this time at the expense of Bob Keegan, the American League's winningest pitcher. Keegan had won nine and lost only one but against the Athletics he lasted only into the fifth inning.

Bill Wilson, White Sox property until last week, homered in the fifth. Bill Renna hit a two-run homer in the sixth off Don Johnson. Jim Finigan led the 14-hit assault with a double, a triple and a pair of singles.

The Yankees wrapped up their victory at Baltimore with four runs in the fifth. Three came on a homer by Joe Collins. The Orioles put the tying runs on base in the ninth and Allie Reynolds had to have help from Johnny Sain to gain credit for his eighth victory.

The Red Sox showed they can love on the road as well as at home. They dropped their eighth straight as Steve Gromek beat them on seven hits.

at the expense of Bob Keegan, the American League's winningest pitcher. Keegan had won nine and lost only one but against the Athletics he lasted only into the fifth inning.

Bill Wilson, White Sox property until last week, homered in the fifth. Bill Renna hit a two-run homer in the sixth off Don Johnson. Jim Finigan led the 14-hit assault with a double, a triple and a pair of singles.

Indians Blast Nationals 9-3 For 6th Straight Victory

Rosen Doubles Home 3 Runs

Houtteman Wins 6th; Mossi Starts Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP)—Al Rosen got back into action for the Cleveland Indians last night for the first time in 10 days and with one swipe of his bat lined a three-run pinch double to right center field to help the Tribe to a 9-3 victory over Washington Nationals.

The victory enlarged the Indians hold on first place to three full games—their biggest margin of the season.

Rosen, whose right index finger was fractured May 25, had been out of the lineup since June 4. He isn't scheduled for full duty until Friday night.

"I can swing a bat all right, but my finger still hurts when I throw," he said.

He swung the bat all right against relief pitcher Chuck Stobbs in the six-run rally the Tribe staged in the eighth inning of what had been a close ball game for seven frames. He batted for Vic Wertz, and after taking one called strike, swatted the bases clear and left the field for pinch runner Bill Glynn. Glynn played first during the last inning in Wertz's place.

The triumph was the sixth in a row for the Indians and got their 13-game home stand against the eastern clubs off to a good start. Art Houtteman got credit for winning his sixth against three losses, but he filled the bases with none out at the start of the ninth and his former Detroit teammate, veteran Hal Newhouser, had to get the last three men out. Newhouser did it 1-2-3, but the Nats' final run came in on Mickey Vernon's fly.

Rookie Don Mossi is to make his first major league start tonight against the Nats' Johnny Schmitz, a southpaw. Last night's loser, rookie Dean Stone, also is a southpaw. The loss was his first against four victories.

The Tribe chased Stone in the eighth and nipped him for 11 of their 14 hits.

Olson Wins Bloody Victory Over Turner

HONOLULU (AP)—Middleweight champion Carl Bobo Olson scored a blood-pattered onesided technical knockout over Jesse Turner of St. Louis in the eighth round of a scheduled none-title 10 at Honolulu Stadium last night.

Olson weighed 6¼ pounds over the 160 pound limit. Turner weighed 161.

There were no knockdowns. Both of Turner's eyes were closed and he was bleeding from the nose and from cuts under each eye when the fight was stopped in 1 minute 9 seconds of the eighth.

Olson fought like a well-oiled boxing machine. He was hardly panting at the end.

Turner started strong but was outclassed from the second round on.

By the sixth round Turner was staggering. He came to life briefly with windmill flurries in the sixth and seventh but there was no power behind the punches and he could hardly see.

Mike Klapak To Race At Canfield Tonight

Stock car fans have seen one of the greatest driving exhibitions in the history of MARC at Canfield Speedway in recent races as Mike Klapak, Warren, has proven unbeatable.

Klapak is setting a terrific pace as he seeks his fifth straight national sportsmen division championship. He has piloted his black No. 23 Ford to four straight victories and has won five of his last seven starts. He placed second and third in the other two.

Fans will get a chance to see Klapak to after his fifth in a row tonight at Canfield.

The Hard Tops are proving to be another outstanding attraction at Canfield. At least 50 appear at each program.

Kenny Burrier of Salem, who won the first heat race in the Hard-Top division at Canfield Saturday, will be hoping to repeat at the speedway tonight.

Last Saturday so many Hard Top appeared that manager Charlie Findlay staged three Hard Top races. If they continue to show this interest, they are bound to become a regular fixture at Canfield.

In addition to the regular Wednesday and Saturday stock car programs this week, the Jimmy Lynch Death Dodgers take over the limelight on Friday night. They will put on a two-hour show starting at 8:30 p.m. The program was rained out two weeks ago.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By R. L. LIDE

The fish removal program at Lake Guilford continues in full swing and thousands of small, undesirable fish are being removed daily.

A total of 16,513 pounds of small bluegills, crappies, gizzard shad and carp have been removed up to date and operations are not half over. This is a tried and proven method of providing better fishing when a lake becomes over-crowded with small fish.

Tom F. Marcina of Lisbon landed a 4 lb. 4 oz. l.m. bass at Guilford Monday. Another 22" bass showed up in the nets that was returned to the water.

Richard Estell of East Liverpool landed a 21" walleye pike fishing in the deep hole where the west branch and the north fork of Little Beaver Creek intersects at Fredricktown. Worms did the trick. You never know what this creek will provide. Brown and rainbow trout and northern pike have been taken by anglers before although they were not stocked by the state.

THE LEAGUE OF Ohio Sportsmen at a meeting recently in Columbus discussed the use of insecticides and herbicides now being used by private enterprises, the townships, county and state, to spray the vegetation along the right-of-ways.

The destruction of useful insects, bees, and nesting areas are destroyed with the possibilities that these chemicals might work into the streams and lakes killing aquatic life and vegetation when used in-advicely.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

It will come as no surprise to me if the American Bankers Association asks John L. Lewis and Dave Beck for a no-raiding agreement.

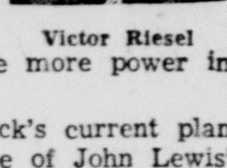

For the next move of these two powerful labor allies, who have more than 180 million dollars in liquid union cash, bonds and securities between them, will be joint action to acquire more power in banking circles.

It is Dave Beck's current plan to deposit in one of John Lewis' two Washington banks a six-figure check within the next few days. Those close to Beck believe this will be the first move in a financial coalition between these leaders of two of the world's most influential unions.

Beck himself has said that he plans to go into the banking business with Lewis. Just what this could mean is open to the usual conjecture. Beck gave me a fast "No comment" when I asked him to elaborate, but didn't deny it. So it is no uneducated guess that these men are interested in far more than making headlines.

JOHN L. NOW controls two banks in our capital, the National Bank of Washington and the Hamilton National Bank, in which Beck plans to deposit. This has made Lewis the District of Columbia's second most powerful banker. He reportedly is seeking still a third financial institution — which would make him Washington's most powerful money-man and money-lender.

This $4,000 South Broadway home is not elaborate. $4,000 doesn't buy a mansion. Five rooms and bath for $4,000 isn't bad. Where else could you invest $4,000 and get a return of $1% per month. $4,000 doesn't sound like a lot of money. I'd say it was a pretty good house for $4,000. It wouldn't take long to pay $4,000 off and have a clean equity. This house is listed at $4,000.

Farm Products Sale Dips Slightly Over 1953

WASHINGTON (P)—The Agriculture Department reported today that farmers received approximately $10,300,000,000 from sale of farm products during the first five months of this year. This was 4 per cent less than they received in the corresponding period last year.

Mid-June Figures Show U. S. Business Is Getting Better

NEW YORK (AP)—Mid-June brings businessmen the first general and official figures to back up their feeling that times are getting better.

Steels mills this week are operating at the highest rate in more than three months.

Auto men are cheered by the report that for the first time in months the stocks of unsold new cars are declining.

Unemployment among workers covered by state jobless pay benefits has slipped below the two million mark for the first time since the start of the year. And the filing of new claims for jobless benefits has dropped to the lowest level since last October.

A new record is in sight this year for construction spending. The U. S. Labor and Commerce departments now estimate spending will hit a new high peak of 36 billion dollars in 1954. This would top last year's spending by two per cent.

It is also two billion dollars above the estimate the two departments made last November, indicating that the public's confidence in the future is surpassing the early hopes of the Washington experts.

Most of the construction gains reflect a higher rate of home building than the departments had expected last fall.

And the unexpectedly good gains in Europe's economic health are giving the exporters of American goods more cheerful prospects.

The U. S. Department of Commerce reports that for the first four months of this year exports of commercial goods were running slightly ahead of 1953.

European business has been gaining steadily, if slowly, and Europeans now have more dollar and gold reserves to call upon if U. S. traders can interest buyers.

Statistics always lag actual happenings. And it's only now that general figures for May, and in some cases even April, are being announced.

The gains, pleasant as they are, aren't being overrated, however by businessmen. In most cases the economy still trails booming 1953—a condition to which most businessmen are now reconciled.

And some of the statistics aren't so cheerful.

Retail sales in May rose above April, for instance, but trailed the year ago mark. And in the last four weeks, sales volume in New York City department stores have been two per cent behind a year ago.

Sales of leading chain store and mail order companies in May averaged four per cent behind those of a year ago.

Hopes for better fall business, however, are reflected in the arrival this week of buyers for women's ready-to-wear. More are registered in New York hotels this year than last.

The American Supply and Machinery Manufacturers' Assn. reports that in April, for the first time this year, its new order index has declined, ending an upturn starting last December.

And, taking an outsider's detached view, the annual World Economic Report of the United Nations predicts a further drop in economic activity in the United States. It sees no forces in sight yet to push production up enough to offset the continuing inventory whittling.

But most American businessmen seem to feel the worst is over and that the slight upturn now being reported mean better times ahead.

24 Instructors Needed In County Schools Next Fall

The competitive war to secure up: West Point and Knox Local school teachers will become worse, Columbiana County Superintendent J. L. McBride predicted today.

It's a case of fewer high school graduates entering the teaching profession, he explained.

The teaching situation in the county rural school system, McBride said, is not critical, in comparison to other years.

Twenty-four more teachers are needed at 13 of the county schools before doors open again next fall, he said.

Since school left out, five new teachers and a principal have been employed to start next term.

Some schools have created new openings with new courses being offered.

For instance, the Fairfield Board of Education is searching for a girls physical education teacher and a driver training teacher. New Waterford expects to hire a combination social studies and Spanish instructor, boys' physical education, English, home economics, and mathematics - science teacher.

Other schools and the number of teachers needed are:

Calcutta, three for sixth grade

third grade teachers; Negley and Highlandtown, one each in upper grades; United Local, two in upper grades and two for new departments; Unity Local, one for fifth grade; Wayne Local, one for fourth and fifth grades and one for upper grades West, one each for eighth and second grades and No. 18, one for first and second.

United Local is still in the market for a superintendent with both elementary and high school experience.

New teachers who have been hired or transferred from one school to another are Mrs. Bernice Andrus of East Palestine, Negley School; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Smythe of Steubenville, West Local; Luther Woodall of Lisbon, RD. 4, United Local and Mrs. Elaine Hickman of East Liverpool, RD. 1, Highlandtown.

Lester Hickman, formerly seventh and eighth grade teacher at Highlandtown, has been promoted to principal replacing Mrs. Gladys Janousek of Wellsville.

McBride said beginning salaries for teachers just out of college range between $2,500 and $3,000, with the majority of schools starting at the former figure.

Mysterious Berlin

By HAL BOYLE

BERLIN (AP)—Pages from a touring notebook:

Berlin is a spy's paradise today.

There is probably more cloak-and-dagger stuff going on here than in any other big city in the world. Some 30 Allied intelligence services operate, and how many Russian agencies are in the field is anybody's guess.

Presumably they are all constantly checking on each other, and many a secret agent, looking back across his shoulders, must have the uneasy feeling that the guy following him is himself.

The normal discussion tone in Berlin is "the big whisper." After a few days here even the casual visitor finds himself talking with his hand over his mouth, and he begins to feel like a character in a B-grade spy thriller. This sense of mystery, of being involved in something going on that you don't understand, pervades the entire city.

Many Berliners today have a dislike of being registered or catalogued in any way. The atmosphere of tension that hangs over a divided Germany has created an unwillingness in many to be publicly identified with any cause. They fear that today's seal of approval may turn out to be tomorrow's death tag.

In the Berlin Amerika Haus, for example, thousands of Germans like to come and read the books or look at the films provided by the U. S. government. But many won't take books home with them because to do so they would have to sign a library card.

Under the Amerika Haus program—there are 22 libraries scattered through Western Germany—there is no heavy-handed attempt to propagandize the Germans, but merely to make available to them the best achievements of American social and technical culture.

"We find that if we stick to the job of representing America rather than hitting somebody else over the head, they respect us more," said George Henry of Reading.

Pa., director of Berlin Amerika Haus.

The library here draws from 300 to 1,000 visitors a day, many of them dwellers of Russian-occupied East Berlin anxious to get a first-hand peek at the American way of life.

Commie organizations to which they belong usually try to discourage such visits by warning of terrible punishments the Americans will inflict upon them.

"Recently a young Eastern Sector mechanic came to the library to see a film," recalled Henry, "and repeatedly refused to sit in one of the light metal chairs provided for the audience."

"Finally, he reluctantly told why. He said he had been warned that the metal chairs were wired, if he sat in one it would give him a shock, and when he woke up he'd be fighting with the French Foreign Legion in Indochina."

Life has been so weird in Germany for the last 15 years that it takes time for any truth to catch up with and kill a tale.

Bar girls are banned in most American cities today, but they still flourish in some German night clubs for the edification of the tired businessman.

The girl dances with the T.B.M. or sits across the bar from him, lapping up split bottles of champagne as he tells her the sad story of his life. This form of entertainment comes high. For in return for bending her ear, the tired businessman is supposed to fork over a big tip as well as foot the champagne bill.

The Germans have a very descriptive name for these entertainers—"animation girls."

MISHAP KILLS WOMAN

The car, driven by Colby Oiler, 22, also of Georgetown, overturned on a curve. Mayor B. J. Crawford ordered Oiler held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter.
